The Local Area Unemployment Statistics (LAUS) program provides year-end annual average employment for the Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) and the Micropolitan Statistical Areas. This issue of the LMR will provide the decade-long annual average unemployment rates for the state, the MSAs, and the micropolitan areas. (See the table on Page 2.)

Metro Areas

During the last two years (2007-2009), the annual average unemployment rates have increased each successive year in every metro area of the state. From 2006 to 2007, the unemployment rate in every MSA declined except for a slight increase in the Clarksville MSA.

Last year, the metropolitan areas with the lowest unemployment rates were Knoxville (8.7 percent) followed by Nashville (9.3 percent), and Chattanooga and Kingsport (both 9.4 percent). Of the metro areas, the Knoxville MSA has had the lowest unemployment rate for each year in this time series (tied with Nashville in 2001 and 2005). The Morristown MSA had the highest rate in both 2008 (7.4 percent) and 2009 (12.9 percent). The Morristown MSA had the largest increase from 2008 to 2009 (up 5.5 percent) while the Memphis MSA had the smallest increase (3.1 percent). The Kingsport MSA had a 67.9 percent increase in its unemployment in a single year (5,540 more unemployed workers). Nashville, which has the largest employment in the state, had 27,880 new unemployed individuals in 2009.

Micro Areas

The micropolitan areas are new designations based on the 2000 Census that have at least one urban cluster of greater than 10,000 but less than 50,000 population, plus this area may include adjacent counties with a high degree of social and economic integration.

Beginning in 2007, the annual average unemployment rate increased in each successive year in every micropolitan area of the state. From 2006 to 2007, the unemployment rate in every micropolitan statistical area declined except in Athens, Columbia, and Lewisburg. Martin remained unchanged from 2006 to 2007.

These 20 smaller communities only account for 15.6 percent of the total persons employed in 2009. However, almost one in five unemployed Tennesseans (19.3 percent) live in these micropolitan areas. The total 2009 unemployment in the micropolitan areas was 61,180 persons. This total unemployment is about the same number as in the Memphis MSA with 130,000 less employment than Memphis. The total unemployment rate in the micropolitan areas was 12.7 percent, which is higher than every MSA except Morristown. Four of these micro areas had unemployment rates greater than 15 percent.

For detailed information, refer to the Annual Averages: Labor Force and Nonfarm Employment Estimates, 2005-2009 publication that is available at <http://www.tn.gov/labor-wfd/publication.htm>

The lowest rate occurred in Lincoln County at 6.8 percent, up 0.2 percent from the previous month. The highest rate was Scott County's 20.9 percent, up from 19.6 percent in May 2010.

The data from all the nonfarm employment estimates tables include all full- and part-time nonfarm wage and salary employees who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period that includes the 12th of the month. This is a count of jobs by place of work. Agricultural workers, proprietors, self-employed persons, workers in private households, and unpaid family workers are excluded. These numbers may not add due to rounding. Data is based on the 2009 benchmark.
