MARK GWYN
Director

June 8, 2007

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I would like to present the 2006 Hate Crime report. This is the annual report published by the TBI presenting information on reported crimes motivated by bias that occurred in Tennessee. The information contained in the report is based on crime statistics information submitted by law enforcement agencies in Tennessee to TBI's Tennessee Incident Based Reporting System (TIBRS) program. TIBRS is the state version of the FBI's National Incident Based Reporting System (NIBRS) program. Please see www.tncrimeonline.com for additional information.

The groups toward which bias motivated crimes may be directed are based on the national definitions and conform to the same standards used in the annual Hate Crime Report published by the FBI for the United States. Any offense may be motivated by bias. The bias motivation is an element of the offense and is not reported as a separate crime occurrence.

I am very proud of the efforts of all participating law enforcement agencies in the state to provide the data necessary to produce this report. Our combined efforts have resulted in this annual report detailing the nature of bias motivated crime occurrences in our state.

Sincerely,

Mark Gwyn
Director

INTERNATIONALLY ACCREDITED SINCE 1994

Introduction

BIAS MOTIVATION

Because of the difficulty in ascertaining the offender's subjective motivation, bias is to be reported only if the investigation reveals sufficient objective facts to lead a reasonable and prudent person to conclude that the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by bias against a racial, religious, ethnic/national origin, physical or mental disability, or sexual orientation group. Incidents which do not involve any facts and/or evidence indicating biased motivation on the part of the offender are to be reported as "None." Incidents involving ambiguous facts and/or evidence (i.e., where some facts/evidence are present but are not conclusive) are to be reported as "Unknown." However, upon completion of the investigation, the incident should be edited to either "None" or the proper bias motivation code.

Incidents submitted with a bias motivation code of "Unknown" will be counted as a Hate Crime in the agency's statistics.

Methodology

The TBI collects hate crime data regarding criminal offenses that are motivated, in whole or in part, by the offender's bias against a race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity or national origin, or disability and are committed against persons, property, or society. Because motivation is subjective, it is difficult to know with certainty whether a crime was the result of the offender's bias. Moreover, the presence of bias alone does not necessarily mean that a crime can be considered a hate crime. Law enforcement investigation is crucial for accurate hate crime reporting because it must reveal sufficient evidence to lead a reasonable and prudent person to conclude that the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by his or her bias. Only then can law enforcement report an incident as a hate crime.

Data Collection

The law enforcement agencies that participate in the hate crime program collect details about an offender's bias motivation associated with the following 11 offense types already being reported to the UCR Program: murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, aggravated assault, simple assault, and intimidation (crimes against persons); and robbery, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, arson, and destruction/damage/vandalism (crimes against property). The law enforcement agencies that participate in the UCR Program via the NIBRS collect data about additional offenses for crimes against persons and crimes against property, which the UCR Program publishes in Hate Crime Statistics as other. These agencies also collect hate crime data for another category called crimes against society, which includes drug or narcotic offenses, gambling offenses, prostitution offenses, and weapon law violations. Together, the offense classification other and the crime category crimes against society include 35 Group A Offenses (not listed) that are captured in the NIBRS, which also collects the previously mentioned 11 offense categories. (The Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook, NIBRS edition [1992], provides an explanation of all 46 Group A Offenses.)

The UCR Program data collection guidelines stipulate that a hate crime may involve multiple offenses, victims, and offenders within one incident; therefore, the hate crime data collection program is incident-based. In submitting data to the national UCR Program, law enforcement agencies count one offense for each victim of crimes against persons. When submitting crimes against property, however, agencies count one offense for each distinct incident, regardless of the number of victims. Likewise, law enforcement agencies submitting data through the NIBRS count one offense for each distinct incident (not victim) of crimes against society.

The UCR Program uses the minimally accepted designations for race and ethnicity as established by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and published in the Federal Register. The revised standards have five minimum categories for data on race and two categories for data on ethnicity. In complying with the published standards, the FBI uses the following racial designation in its hate crime data collection program: White; African American; American Indian/Alaskan Native; Asian/Pacific Islander; and Multiple Races. The ethnic designations are Hispanic and Other Ethnicity/National Origin.

Data Reporting

Law enforcement agencies may submit hate crime data in one of three ways: via NIBRS submissions, in an electronic hate crime record layout, or on the Hate Crime Incident Report and the Quarterly Hate Crime Report forms. The media on which the state UCR Programs may forward hate crime data to the FBI include, but are not limited to, magnetic cartridges, disks, electronic record layouts sent via e-mail, and paper forms.

Most agencies reporting data electronically to the FBI via the NIBRS use a data element within their reporting software that indicates the incident involved a bias motivation. Because the data element applies to all 46 Group A Offenses, it enables agencies to indicate whether any of the 35 additional offenses were bias motivated. Furthermore, these agencies can report considerably more information about the hate crime incident because the NIBRS is an incident-based, comprehensive data collection system. Though the additional data are not maintained in the hate crime database, they are available in the NIBRS master files.

Law enforcement agencies that prefer electronic submissions but do not report via the NIBRS may use the hate crime record layout specified in the publication Hate Crime Magnetic Media Specifications for Tapes & Diskettes (January 1997). As long as they have the FBI's approval, agencies may use any of the previously mentioned electronic media to submit the data.

Agencies that use the Hate Crime Incident Report and the Quarterly Hate Crime Report forms capture the following information about each hate crime incident: the offense type and its respective bias motivation, the number and type of victims, the location of the incident, the number of known offenders, and the known offender's race. During a calendar quarter, law enforcement agencies submit a Hate Crime Incident Report for each bias-motivated incident. At the end of each calendar quarter, agencies submit a Quarterly Hate Crime Report summarizing the total number of incidents reported for the quarter. On this form, agencies may also delete any previously reported incidents that were determined through subsequent investigation not to be bias-motivated. If no hate crime incidents occurred in their jurisdictions that quarter, the agencies must still submit the Quarterly Hate Crime Report to report zero hate crime incidents.

Notes

To be included in this publication, law enforcement agencies must have submitted hate crime data for at least 1 month of the calendar year. The published data, therefore, do not necessarily represent reports from each participating agency for 12 months or 4 quarters.

Valid assessments about crime, including hate crime, are possible only with careful study and analysis of the various unique conditions affecting each local law enforcement jurisdiction. Therefore, the reader is cautioned against making simplistic comparisons between the statistical data of this program with that of others with differing methodologies or even comparing individual reporting units solely on the basis of their agency type.

The total bias motivation offenses have decreased by 16.3% from 2005 (417) to 2006 (349). Religious bias motivation offenses have increased by 90.5% from 2005 (21) to 2006 (40), and also increased by 166.7% from 2004 (15) to 2006 (40). Sexual bias motivation offenses have increased by 185.7% from 2005 (21) to 2006 (60) and also increased by 160.9% from 2004 (23) to 2006 (60). Unknown bias motivation offenses have decreased by 61.6% from 2005 (258) to 2006 (99). The largest factor for the decrease in unknown bias motivation offenses has been due to training for reporting bias motivated incidents.

Bias motivated crimes against persons for 2006 were 50.4% (176) while crimes against property were 49.6% (173). Crimes against persons offenses had 35.2% (62) from aggravated assault, 34.1% (60) from intimidation, and 26.1% (46) from simple assault. Crimes against property offenses had 50.3% (87) from Destruction/Damage/Vandalism, 11.6% (20) from Burglary, and 9.8% (17) from Robbery.

Definitions

GROUP A OFFENSE DEFINITIONS

The following contains the definitions used in TIBRS to classify Group A offenses. These definitions are not meant to be used for charging persons with crimes but used as “pigeonholes” for reporting crimes. This allows for comparison statewide as well as nationwide. Since all Group A offenses occurring in an incident are to be reported, care must be taken to identify all such offenses involved in an incident. Care must also be taken to ensure that each offense that is reported is a separate, distinct crime, rather than just a part of another offense.

Example: Every robbery includes some type of assault; but because the assault is an element of the robbery, only Robbery should be reported. If during a Robbery, the victim is forced to engage in sexual relations, both Robbery and Forcible Rape should be reported, as forced sexual intercourse is not an element of Robbery. A rape case might also involve the crimes of Motor Vehicle Theft and Kidnapping, and they should all be reported. Burglary is another example because it usually includes a larceny offense. Because burglary is defined in terms of theft, only the burglary is to be reported. NOTE: In TIBRS, the classifications of felonies and misdemeanors do not apply. TIBRS offenses are classified according to their definitions and the facts involved in the incident. However, this does not change what a person is charged with under Tennessee statute(s). The following pages contain the definitions that should be used in determining what type of offense has occurred.
