Participating Non-public Schools

IEA Program Overview

The IEA Program is a school choice program for eligible students with disabilities. The program provides options for parents of students in grades K–12 to choose the education opportunities that best meet their own unique needs through access to public education funds. The student eligibility requirements are explained on the IEA ‘Student Eligibility’ webpage.

After a student has enrolled in the IEA Program, they must enroll in and attend either a private school or an independent/umbrella home school in accordance with Tennessee’s school attendance law. Students in the IEA Program cannot be enrolled full-time in a public school. Students can attend any non-public school once enrolled in the IEA Program, and use the funds for the approved expenses explained in the IEA Account Holder Handbook.

Becoming a Participating School in the IEA Program

In order to participate in the IEA Program and accept IEA funding from parents for payment for tuition, fees, and/or textbooks, non-public schools must apply to the Tennessee Department of Education, receive approval, and be placed on the approved list of IEA participating non-public schools for the respective school year.

Applications for non-public schools to participate in the IEA Program are accepted year-round. Applications for non-public schools to participate in the IEA Program must be completed and submitted by the administrator (e.g., principal) of the school. The application instructions are posted on the IEA webpage.

If school principals have questions about the school application process, please contact the IEA team at IEA.Questions@tn.gov.
